This beautiful modern villa has everything you could wish for. When the electric gate opens and you drive into your car you will immediately be perplexed. The detached house is surrounded by beautiful plants and trees that require little maintenance. The home feeling is immediately created here and then you have not yet discovered the inside or all the other outdoor spaces. Ground floor: When entering the house you enter a hall that immediately overlooks the entire living areas, including the open kitchen, living room and dining room. The first thing you will notice is the sleek and neat design, the high ceilings and the many large windows that provide natural light that gives you a warm and open feeling from all sides of the house. From the living room you have a large sliding door that can be slid open completely to really create that inside outside feeling. When you will settle down in the salon, you can put it completely in the relax with...
